the note

Looking out over Megali Ammos

Ever since I was a child, I remember Mykonos being a pole of attraction for celebrities from all over the world. Back then, older folk still talked about Anthony Quinn, who had come to the island with Jacqueline Bisset in summer 1977 for the shooting of The Greek Tycoon. In the late afternoon, just before the sun sank into the sea, painting the sky red, I would often stand on this – then desolate – hillside above Megali Ammos beach, right here, where the swimming pool now sits. Gazing out over the sea with its rocky islets, I dreamt that one day I would have my own place to host those famous visitors.

Of course I never imagined building a hotel on this tranquil hillside, where the only thing you could hear was the cooing of courting birds, concealed in the bushes in Spring. I simply envisaged a place from which you could look out over the vast blue of the Aegean, a base for those wishing to discover the beauty of the island. Today, I have expanded my guest list to include those wishing to enjoy the timeless Greek summer, authentic Mykonian hospitality and the culinary delights created by my friend and associate, Chef Athinagoras Kostakos. Cherishing that childhood memory, I later named the hotel Bill & Coo, so I would never forget that there was once a time when there was nothing here but nature.

LIVE THE EXPERIENCE! BILL & COO GASTRONOMY PROJECT 2015

The plans of Bill & Coo's acclaimed chef for a gastronomic summit continue with an ambassador of French fine food, Jacques Pourcelet who is invited on September 8th (more info on page 34). Following the successful collaborations of the past 4 years with distinguished chefs, that will also be one more meeting of culinary art at its most creative, the second for this summer. On June 14th, Athinagoras Kostakos opened the doors of his kitchen to French chef Eric Guerin, winner of two Michelin stars, and welcomed him at a dinner of the highest gastronomic standards.

Jacques Pourcelet is the co-owner with his brother Laurent of the 6 Sens restaurant and Le Jardin des Sens.

DELOS OF THE GODS

What does Delos mean to us today? Is it the marble ruins adorned with wild flowers, baking in the hot sun, or perhaps a pathway to hope and the dream of a modern humanity? Prompted by these questions, Alexandra Dimou and Dimitris Karavolas envisaged a celebration-event-exploration, dedicated to the Delos of the present and of the future. A documentary directed by Antonis Kioukas and narrated by Georges Corraface.

Premiere at Cine Manto 3/10 and Grypareio Cultural Centre 4/10

ANTIGONE

PRESENTING THE CONTEMPORARY MIDDLE EAST

"There is a revolution in arts in the Arab world", says Marilena Koutsoukou, the curator of the first group exhibition of modern artists from the Middle East presented in Greece. From the Arab Dolls by Carlo Massoud (Lebanon) to the new works of Bouthayna Al Muftah (Katar), Perryhan El-Ashmawi (Bahrein) and Pinar Du Pre (Turkey), the exhibition brings forward a whole new range of artistic themes starting a cultural dialogue under the Mykonian sky. 8-20/8, skoufagallery.gr

DIO HORIA

Inspired by a book of the famous Greek architect Aris Konstantinidis entitled Dio Horia from Mykonos, meaning both "two spaces", "two villages", and founded in 2015 by Marina Vranopoulou, Dio Horia invites artists to stay at its residency and create an artwork out of his/her experience of the contradictory Mykonos. Striving to be at the forefront of cultural experimentation in Greece and abroad, it collaborates with the DESTE Foundation of Contemporary Art and Ommu Bookstore. diohoria.com

THE ADVENTURER

The renowned actor Georges Corraface talks about Delos, the sacred island of its time.

What does Delos mean for you?
In its time, Delos was a cosmopolitan island in terms of both religion and trade. Unfortunately, in the harsh reality of life in ancient times, this also proved to be its downfall. Delos enjoyed many privileges on account of its thriving commerce under the protection of the gods of the greater region. This made it a target. Personally, I believe this is a great lesson, the fact that material privileges can become a provocation when they diminish the prospects of others. Good things should be shared. On Delos I saw how many masterpieces once existed, only to be razed to the ground. On the one hand I admire the beauty, while on the other I can “taste” the violence.

What was your impression of Mykonos after so many years?
It was a wonderful experience, out of season, with wind and sun. Shooting the documentary was something of an adventure. We all felt we were doing something special. For me personally, it felt great being back on Mykonos, which reminded me of a theater making final preparations before the grand premiere. To me, Mykonos is a theatrical place that has become detached from itself and is delivering a performance. Not unlike some stars who live out people’s perceptions of them.

Are you a star?
I don’t aspire to be a star. I like to change my life and environment; I like having adventures and playing roles that differ greatly from me and take me somewhere else. Being a star is quite different. It’s a full-time occupation that also necessitates sacrifices. And some people are prepared to pay that price.

Do you believe that Delos speaks of the human condition? In the sense that we begin life invisible, unseen (adelos) and gradually become humans...

I like the idea; the metaphor is clear and strong. We do indeed start invisible, unseen, before stating our presence, manifesting ourselves and enriching our inner self. At some point, this intellectual, spiritual and cultural wealth should not be quantitative but qualitative. Most often, however, we seek personal power by accumulating both. Delos amassed this wealth from the treasures of different cultures and religions, like a person seeking personal power, and this was a form of hubris.

You are now an Ambassador of Delos. What are your intentions in this capacity?
There are plans for a concert to raise money through the Leventis Foundation in order to establish a museum that communicates with the site, in which the countless treasures in the current museum will have space to “breathe”. If we manage to allow each artifact to shine, this will be a very positive step. I will be taking part in all these efforts as an Ambassador of Delos.

What moved you most about Delos?
I was deeply moved by both the museum and the theater on the island. On Mt. Kynthus too, you feel something otherworldly; it is as though you are at the epicenter of the island’s magnetism. There, it is very easy to imagine life in ancient times, when trade was flourishing. At the same time, you can appreciate how friendly but also how dangerous the Aegean can be. It is a sea on a human scale, quite different to the ocean. It also has to do with Greek awe: your gaze becomes fixed on something full of history. Mankind has left its indelible marks on the Greek landscape: on the rocks, on the mountains, everywhere. And these marks speak!

THE TALE OF CHORA

Chora is the island's point of reference reflecting its history and its very existence. From the ancient times to its touristic boom, it represents everything Mykonos stands for.

Chora has always been cosmopolitan, maybe due to the number of the ancient people that settled on the island: Carians, Phoenicians, Cretans and Ionians. Desirable prize for all of its conquerors, Mykonos passed subsequently from the Athenian to the Spartan Coalition, and then to the Macedonians, Ptolemians of Egypt and Romans. The prehistoric settlement of Ftelia and the Mycenaean dome tomb in Aggelika, the findings of the archeologist Panagiotis Chadzidakis in the school of Mavros in the Chora Castle, as well as the temple of Apollo in Foinikes prove that Mykonos has had an abundant ancient past. The Castle area, which has been inhabited uninterruptedly since prehistory, is a vivid proof of its continuity. Due to barbarian attacks in the 7th century, it was hastily abandoned, until it was possible to get inhabited again when Gzy brothers from Venice built its fortification. Reefs and yearly winds protected the Castle, which was built between Tourlos and Korfos bays, from pirate attacks. Today, right in this area, the most famous church of the Cyclades is located: the Byzantine monument, Panagia Paraportiani, a rare example of popular ecclesiastical architecture. In 1537, less than three centuries since the conquest of the island by Catalan pirates, the famous Haireidin Barbarossa destroyed Mykonos. Chora's destiny had always been one of continuous change, heavily depended on the outcome of Turkish-Venetian and Turkish-Russian wars. Lucky outcome of the short Russian occupation (1770-1774) is the glorious building of Chancellery (the current Town Hall). At the outbreak of the Greek Revolution (1821), Myconians joined Manto Mavrogenous who became the heroine of the Struggle. A significant monument of that period is Kazarma (Casa di Arma, the House of Arms), Manto's headquarters, where she used to accommodate her soldiers as well. Chora, with its mills and its cube-shaped houses as a trademark, is now a "listed settlement" and anything that needs to be built here has to comply with the requirements of the Mykonian architecture. Since the middle of the '50s, Chora has turned into a cosmopolitan resort attracting eminent visitors from all over the world. Some of them loved its ambience so much that they became its fervent repeaters and the island's enthusiasts.

JEWEL MASTER

The Jeweler Aficionado Geoffrey Medlinger talks in Bill & Coo Paperworks about the hotel, the island and the success.

What does Mykonos mean to you?

Breathe, live, enjoy, swim, contemplate, party, recharge. Mykonos is fun, beauty, authenticity and freedom. A rock between the sea and the sky, full of surprises and energy, where the world meets Greece. There is something magnetic about Mykonos, that will never be tamed, and yet it remains a place where I am certain to share happy moments with the ones I love and create new memories.

What makes a successful person?

Passion, curiosity, generosity, and the ability to be yourself no matter what you do. The idea that if you are true to yourself, there is no limit to what you can achieve and that achieving is never comparing. Brains and heart. The need to dream. The need to follow your dreams, and question them and act on them and build them and share them.

Your acquaintance to Bill & Coo. Was it love from first sight?

Oh yes! In 2008 a friend brought me to B&C for drinks and I was spellbound instantly; the view, the pool, the bar, and the kindness of all. Then I discovered the suites, the amazing beds and the food! Aaaaah, the food... Every year I feel a little more at home. I believe B&C offers a very special vision of luxury, very personal, a world of simplicity and sophistication where smiles are real and life feels easy, uncomplicated, peaceful.

I believe Bill & Coo offers a very special and very personal vision of luxury...

What's your favorite time of the day in Bill & Coo?

Breakfast! A quick swim in the inviting pool and a bit of wind in the air... Then fantastic Greek food and chillout music. I can't imagine any better way to wake up and feel good about the day to come.

As a repeater can you tell some tips for getting the most while staying in Bill & Coo?

I do not want to give away the nb of my favourite room as I am afraid it will no longer be available when I need it! But all rooms have their own personality and it is great to come back and try new ones. Of course the food. A dinner with a tasting menu by Athinagoras is an experience that you will never forget. And of course the sunsets, the huge pink skies and the little stars that you can also see inside the pool, with an espresso or a passion fruit Martini. My best tip to get the most of B&C: if you need anything, ask the staff. They are always happy to chat and to help. With a smile!

How it feels to work on a such unique business field?

I am very privileged and lucky to be part of the fascinating world of High Jewellery. Of course I am very passionate about my profession, and every day I remember that to be surrounded by the most beautiful stones and jewels, able to share them with many interesting people from many different cultures is a wonderful mission. An inspiring one.

What are the key assets that have built your company's myth?

The pursuit of excellence in delivering the best, flawless jewels as timeless works of Art that will forever encapsulate moments of happiness.

The desire to share a positive vision of life, through creations that pay homage to Nature, love, luck and femininity.

The quest for technical perfection and endless innovation, without any compromise, in order to translate a very unique style and convey its emotions.

Diamonds: an investment or a heritage?

Many pieces are wonderful investments, rare stones, unique designs, expression of Art. But before all a jewel is a testimony of love, given to remember a special occasion and make it shine forever, like the fire inside the diamond, and as such, it will become the most beautiful heritage.

SEVEN SEAS DINNER

The Bill & Coo team presented a signature Greek Dinner in Monaco for the launch of Van Cleef & Arpels Seven Seas collection.

The plain white pouch bearing the Van Cleef & Arpels logo, tied with a blue ribbon, containing the catalogue/table book of selected pieces from the company's new "Seven Seas" high jewelry collection, a numbered scarf by Hermes discreetly displaying the name of the collection and a leather-bound agenda with the program of events in Nice, France and Monaco. You would expect nothing less from the leading international jewelry company, founded in 1896, for the launch of its new collection. Official guest and Monegasque dignitaries had a heavy schedule of three days and nights full of surprises. But the most impressive event was the Greek Dinner. This unique collaboration, both in terms of demands and the stellar guest list, was a glittering addition to the hundreds of events organized by Bill & Coo around the world during the past nine years, an evening on which authentic Greek hospitality enchanted some very influential people. On the Côte d'Azur, the Villa Kerylos (meaning Halcyon or kingfisher, which was considered to be a bird of good omen in Greek mythology) is one of the most extraordinary monuments on the French Riviera. Built in the Belle Époque, it is a faithful reconstruction of the imposing Greek homes built on Delos in the 2nd century BC. It was in this amazing residence that the Bill & Coo team – specifically Athinagoras Kostakos (Executive Chef), Angela Simou (Pastry Chef) and Panagiotis Sopiadis (General Manager) – hosted their carefully selected group of guests. The "Seven Seas" dinner presented by Athinagoras, comprised seven dishes inspired by the Greek sea, featuring fresh ingredients from Mykonos and the surrounding islands. Angela chose the most characteristic aromas of Greek fruits and herbs for her sweet creations, while Panagiotis had overall responsibility for the event, the aim of which was to take the guests on a journey to the Greece. The evening concluded with a spectacular firework display that lit up the sky over the sea, a show in perfect harmony with the live Greek music.

PANAGIOTIS SOPIADIS OPEN HORIZONS

*From New York to Seoul and then back to Greece and Mykonos.
The General Manager of Bill & Coo is a true citizen of the world.*

A day at Bill & Coo. How does it begin and how does it end?

I start at around 9 in the morning as the tables are filling for breakfast and I sit with the guests, especially the repeaters. Then I take a look at the arrivals and departures for that day and discuss with my team any guest preferences or whether there are any anniversaries, birthdays, etc. After this, I devote some time to routine matters such as maintenance work, supplies and reservations. Around noon, when the arrivals and departures begin, I try to be at the hotel as much as possible so that guests can reach me easily. After all, an essential part of the Bill & Coo philosophy is our desire for guests to know us and for us to know them on a first-name basis, just as if we were hosting them at home. Then, I may be able to enjoy a two- or three-hour break. When I return, there is a meeting to discuss the restaurant bookings. My next task is overseeing the turndown service, for at sunset Bill & Coo undergoes a transformation. The atmosphere gradually changes, becoming more like a relaxed celebration.

Has there been some trip that changed your life?

Travelling in general has changed my way of life and philosophical outlook. At some point I decided that one should live one's life to the fullest. In this regard I remember something a guest once told me: "If everyone was obliged to travel, there would be no more wars".

You have visited a large number of first class hotels around the world. What is Bill & Coo's comparative advantage?

Its people, plus the fact that service is very friendly without ever going over the top. We don't put on a pretence and this is appreciated.

One particularly memorable moment at Bill & Coo?

Last year, the day we closed, when I saw the hotel empty, the swimming pool empty, and I too felt empty. I didn't expect to be so deeply affected!

Of what are you most proud in your work at Bill & Coo?

I believe that the small contribution I have made is the addition of certain finishing touches. Besides, my predecessors have done very good work and this is evident. At the same time however, I personally have learned much from the originator, creator and owner of the hotel who, apart from being an outstanding businessman, is also a Man with a capital M, with boundless energy and a strong vision.

What do you do in winter?

I have some free time in winter, so I go travelling. But even in winter, I have certain tasks, such as going with the hotel's restaurant team to various venues around the world to organize events, at which Athinagoras Kostakos, our executive chef, presents dishes of creative Greek cuisine. This winter in particular I expect to be quite busy, due to the arrival of Bill & Coo's "little sister" with 15 suites at Ai Giannis, right next to the sea.

K-STUDIO ARCHITECTS ARE THE CREATIVE MINDS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE BILL & COO'S NEW IMPRESSIVE SUITES. DIMITRIS KARAPATAKIS, ONE OF THE FOUNDERS OF THE ATHENS BASED FIRM, TALKS ABOUT THE CONCEPT THAT LED TO THE MAKEOVER OF THIS PART OF THE HOTEL.

How much of an influence was Mykonian architecture in the suites makeover at Bill & Co?

It was the starting point from which the search for Bill & Co's new identity began. Generally speaking, our studio endeavors to devise a narrative in the framework of a holistic understanding. This entails an integrated, multidisciplinary approach that involves, among other things, civil engineering, interior design and branding, with the aim of creating a specific identity for and an overall experience from the projects we undertake. Bill & Co had already achieved great success with the logic of an urban hotel, which is not normally associated with seaside accommodation. We use the term "urban" here in the sense of the hotel's close proximity to the island's main town. In addition, it is a contemporary hotel that instills optimism, with tasteful, unostentatious decoration. This was our starting point. We then "passed" Mykonos through this filter, using materials one finds in the Cyclades, such as granite stone, wood – the chestnut and oak once used to build fishing boats – white plaster and cement screed. This was the palette provided by Cycladic architecture. With regard to traditional techniques, we used built-in benches, wooden window shutters, wooden ceilings and beams. We wanted to introduce these elements intact into their new environment. Since the hotel in particular targets guests with an appreciation for the aesthetic, we wanted them to feel as though they were in an "alter ego" of their own homes, for an even more satisfying experience. So we took the materials and elements from the architectural vernacular of Mykonos and the Cyclades in general and incorporated them in a more open layout. In the bedroom suites, for example, the washbasin, shower and bed are "joined" by a large bench. In combination with the hidden lighting under the bench, this evokes a sense of dynamism. Another feature is the ceiling with wooden beams, which in terms of decorative effect create greater depth overhead with five layers of wood. It was also important to conceal certain fixtures such as the fire detection system, loudspeakers and safety lights, for though absolutely necessary, these tend to remind guests of "reality". Accordingly, they were all hidden in the high ceiling. Overall, we made every effort to create a space featuring traditional Mykonian elements, but with a playful, contemporary feel conducive to a very special experience.

How have you used the fabulous Cycladic light?

Naturally we wanted the light to enter the rooms but at the same time we respected a feature of the past, namely the need to block the sun's glare. So we have filtered the natural light using shutters and two sets of curtains, one lighter and more transparent and the other heavier. This is absolutely essential, because when you return from a night out, you want to cut yourself off for a while. The lighting design, by IFI Group, was aimed at accentuating all the different textures and layers of the interior space.

How has the view been incorporated into this approach?

For us, it functioned as a visual effect; framed by the windows and pergolas, the view becomes more three-dimensional.

How have the furniture and other decorative elements contributed to your narrative?

In order to complete the truly unique experience we wished to convey at Bill & Co, we custom designed everything: beds, wardrobes, tables, couches, even the knobs on the sliding doors of the shower. This also enabled us to assign different functions to the furniture. For example, the wardrobe encloses the mini bar, air-conditioning and sound system. It also serves as a partition, allowing guests to enjoy the view from the bathroom area. In other words, it functions as a blurred boundary, sometimes unifying and other times separating. Here too we were inspired by the Cycladic tradition, using oak and chestnut for the furniture, but also linen fabric in order to render the naturalness and aesthetic quality of the islands.

Which architects do you admire?
Will Alsop, with whom we have worked in London. We also admire the analysis process adopted by BIG, MVRDV, OAM and of course Thomas Heatherwick.

WHERE ELSE?

There's a good vibe in the Spa Room of Bill & Coo. Take a deep breath and revive your mind, body and soul.

Bill & Coo offers treasured experiences for all its guests, through a wider range of activities during their vacations. An oasis of indulgence and relaxation hides in the Spa Room of the hotel. This is where to come to hit the restart button. Carved into the rocks of Megali Ammos hill, the Bill & Coo's Spa Room (for one person or for couple's massage) promises a deep relaxation with authentic treatments and a true inner communication with your body. The gym studio also provides a comfortable and enjoyable workout with the latest technology Technogym equipment and a large sunset/sea view window, overlooking the Aegean Sea.

THE BILL & COO GASTRONOMY PROJECT 2015

This year's gastronomic event bonds French with Greek culinary cultures. It has already made a spectacular start with chef Eric Guerin and keeps us even more excited for the next meeting with another leading chef, Jacques Pourcel.

Jacques Pourcel

Bill & Coo's association with the ambassadors of French cuisine continues with one of the chefs who were selected in 2010 to represent the French gastronomy. Jacques Pourcel appears on the Unesco World Intangible Heritage List in the French Pavilion at Shanghai World Expo, with his 6 Sens restaurant, a concept that met great success.

Based in Montpellier, Languedoc, Jacques Pourcel and his brother Laurent, grew up by the Mediterranean Sea. Passionate about their profession they created together in 1988 with their associate Olivier Chateau, Le Jardin des Sens in Montpellier, a Michelin Star gastronomic restaurant known for its Mediterranean creative, contemporary and refined cuisine.

Creative mind as he is, he has not rested on his laurels. His gastronomic footprint is found in Paris, Shanghai, Bangkok, Tokyo, Marrakesh, Algiers, Beirut and other places in the world. It has come as no surprise that for more than 10 years now "Le Jardin des Sens" has become a catering group that manages approximately twenty units with 600 employees in the world.

La nuit de degustation

For the fifth consecutive year, Bill & Coo Suites invites seasoned chefs to grace its spaces and its haute gastronomy evenings. On June 14th Athinaoras Kostakos welcomed the French chef Eric Guerin, winner of two Michelin stars, into his kitchen and together they created dishes featuring unique flavours and aesthetics. Expert French culinary techniques, combined with fine Greek ingredients and an explosion of creativity, resulted in an experience that impressed even the most demanding palates. The collaboration between the two chefs and teams was a great success and proved highly promising for unique events in the future. For their part, following this one-of-a-kind experience, fans of special delicacies will be looking forward to another inspiring dinner experience in the near future. And those who were not able to taste the chefs' unique creations this time can always come to the next culinary rendez-vous on September 8th, this time with chef Jacques Pourcel as our special guest.

The idea of this year's cocktail menu of Bill & Co was to create sophisticated cocktails with a "funky" approach that follow the innovative cuisine of Executive Chef Athinagoras Kostakos. Homemade syrups, fresh herbs and local spirits such as ouzo and mastic are used to complete the "Gastronomy Project" experience. The best way to end a busy day is to enjoy the spirits of Bill & Co lounging at the infinity pool or dining at the idyllic restaurant.

"Being here 3 years already the prospect for me was to return for the fourth! Being very anxious and looking forward to a great demanding season coming ahead, it came as gift working with Panos. “What we are doing here it is not just mixology, it is not just serving drinks. It is about hospitality and offering you the best you can have. This is not just another hotel bar. It is about the experience that we want to offer; having your cocktail by the pool, feeling like home or a friends’ house. So I brought some new recipes and ideas, Panagiotis with his experience and together with our “petite” barmaid Dimitra (with the accurate hand and the freshness) we made a team to satisfy your drinking needs. Ten signature house cocktails and twisted classic recipes are waiting for you to join them. Cheers!” says the Head Bartender of Bill & Co.

Who's to say that art isn't concealed in a special coffee table or that a contemporary dining table can't express the dynamics of a space that it occupies or the internal world of its owner? Well, think again. Having something so intimate and of personal importance decorating your space is what turns a house into a home. CAYENNE

We could say in three words that it's a pizza & burger bar, but we wouldn't be doing it justice. Because it's so much more. It's the new hot spot in Tourlos, where every morning, Cycladic scrambled eggs meet Italian frittata, giving way to a juicy burger coleslaw, a pizza siciliana, pasta with Calabrese salami and a dolce mascarpone. Boasting a menu with Mediterranean influences, and a focus on Italian classics with modern twists, the new Cayenne restaurant reflects the dream for a spot full of tastes. And all these in an extremely evocative space that will make every sunrise and sunset that you witness there, drinking a cool Grey Goose Vodka cocktail, simply unique and unforgettable.

MISTURA RESTAURANT

What happens when a restless traveler and a accomplished chef decides to introduce a menu inspired by varied cultures in his kitchen? A very promising restaurant is being born on July 9 this summer- a very interesting melting pot of cultural gastronomy and a grand proof that timeless traditions can be evolved into the hands of the "right" man. With Peru as the lead star, Dimitris Katrivesis's journey of flavors, passes through the Aztecs and the Spaniards, the Chinese and the Italians, combining with each of the "stops" the greek DNA of our cuisine with contemporary practices. Aimed at achieving simplicity with contemporary brush strokes, the collection's silk multifunctional designs in 3 prints, give to today's woman summer look a bold advantage: abstraction without loss of femininity. 6 Zanni Pitaraki Str., mourjjan.com

PANORMOS

The beach has a wild beauty, without sunbeds, while its horse-shoe shape is unique, with its colours changing throughout the day. This ex hippy and nudist haunt is reminiscent of old Mykonos. Don't miss the August full moon party here; an unforgettable experience.

LIA

A small bay with deep crystal waters protected from the strong northerly winds which is ideal for snorkeling. This is the alternative preferred by celebrities who arrive by boat. For a more secluded experience walk over the rocks to reach the neighboring Tigani beach.

AGHIOS SOSTIS

No make-up, bars, shops, tourist enterprises or sunbeds. With wonderful deep blue water it favours snorkeling fans. Here you will see celebrity and anonymous nudists, as well as locals. Best from May to mid-July and then in September; avoid the August meltemi winds which make conditions unwelcoming.

PARAGA

It is the first to open and the last to close, since its favourable orientation guarantees warm days from May to October. There is easy parking at both entrances: from Aghia Anna and just before Paradise. Diving from the rock located in the middle of the sea is essential.

KALO LIVADI

One of the island's best organized beaches with a strong cosmopolitan feel. It covers every entertainment and taste expectation on a long blonde sandy beach with green-blue clear water, abundant umbrellas, sunbeds and watersports. We suggest you arrive before 12 noon.

ORNOS

Ornos' long sandy beach is protected by the strong north wind making it an ideal place to swim, practise water sports and dine right next to the sea. And this is exactly what the design Pasaji beach restaurant offers you all day serving creative fusion dishes at the sand.

FOKOS

Even though buses don't reach this beach, it still attracts quite a crowd. Picturesque and calm with the island's coldest waters, it still remains one of Mykonos' untouched treasures. Located right after the artificial lake of Marathi, the beach is quite seriously affected by the north winds.

SUPER PARADISE

With a magical sandy beach giving the sense of a tropical lagoon, it is constantly crowded by hordes of party people. A landmark holiday destination for every teenager, "Super" has nurtured generations with frenzied parties and never-ending fun. Access by car is good, while the last incline before the parking is difficult.

PSAROU

It has been experiencing glory days since the 1980s, setting the summer's trends and defining the concept of luxury living on Mykonos. It boasts warm waters even from the early spring. The road is quite narrow with sharp turns and requires attention.

ELIA

The sunbeds are laid out comfortably and there is a more private section for gays and nudists. There is a spacious parking, a lifeguard and water-sports school that offers a lot of choice for more active beachgoers. It is better to visit it on days with a north wind for calm waters.

GALLERAKI

One of the first cocktail bars in Little Venice and on the entire island, which still however, flies the banner of innovation. The mystery over the content of the now famous “Katerinaki” cocktail still hangs in the air. The tables outside are right on the seafront and the breeze keeps you cool as you sip on refreshing fruity cocktails. If there’s no

NAMMOS

Recommendations for the award-winning Nammos, with high vibes and an exotic atmosphere, are unnecessary. This is a meeting point to-see and to-be-seen and a constant choice for those who seek for an all-inclusive fun night. As the sun sets (quite early in the afternoon), you pass from relaxing bossa nova to Greek pop music to end up dancing in absolute joy, dizziness and bliss. Nammos is an all time classic place-to-be not only of the beach, but of Mykonos in general. Book in advance to taste the meat dishes of the new Beefbar menu and test yourself to wild dancing until the small hours or even until dawn.

PANORMOS

It’s one of those beach bars whose dynamics lies in not standing still. The new concept of Panormos beach bar-restaurant is an all-inclusive approach, that aspires - and succeeds - in not leaving anyone dissatisfied. This means that the renovated space exudes the traditional Mykonian ambience, the beach volley court attracts the athletic visitors, but also there’s no lack of family atmosphere and high desirability in flavors, aromas and purchases. REMEZZO

The show must go on and a new age of fun and dining dawns for the new Remezzo; the former hotspot of partygoers in search of wild nights is now home to one of the best gastronomy and summer drinks settings on the island. Remezzo welcomes guests with an excellent menu, inventive cocktails at Remezzaki and music hits until dawn. The golden sheen of the past still shines bright, but now boasts an added twist – high dining.

A DAY IN THE MUSEUM

The great host of the Acropolis' precious marbles and statues at the service of light and history. Discover the glory past of Athens in ten steps!

Imposing in size but elegantly proportioned, with an architectural design that masterfully tames Attica's light, the New Acropolis Museum is without doubt worth a visit even when you have only a few hours in Athens. It is the masterpiece of Franco-Swiss architect Bernard Tschumi and his associate Michalis Fotiadis. A few yards from the entrance, you cross the ground floor lobby and feel as though you are hovering over centuries of history as your gaze is immersed in the excavations of a 4th-century BC settlement, visible through the glass floor. In order to keep the settlement intact, the whole museum was raised on concrete stilts, thus incorporating yet another artifact into its collection.

STEP 1 The display cases on the side up to the ramp hold dozens of findings uncovered around the slopes of the Acropolis and be presented for the first time to the public, while the two-winged clay Nikes (Victories) are perched on top of towering pedestals.

STEP 2 Shortly before climbing the few steps towards the first floor, you will pass the Sanctuary of Asclepius, adorned with votive offerings and the temple of Dionysus, while at the top of the stairs you will be drawn towards the pediment of sculptures from the "Hekatompedon" temple of the Goddess Athens which is presented in full for the first time.

You hover over centuries of history gazing at a 4th-century BC settlement

STEP 3 To the south of the first floor Gallery, a sun-drenched "forest of statues" emerges with ancient inscriptions revealed their creator or donor. It is worth noting that this is the world's richest collection of coloured statues from the Archaic Period.

STEP 4 Scale models illustrate how the following exhibits are integrated in their natural surroundings, namely the scale models of the Propylaia, of the Temple of Athens Nike, of the Erechtheion and of the Caryatids.

STEP 5 Climbing the Sacred Rock reaches a climax when you arrive at the temple. The sensation is identical at the museum's top floor, as when you enter the Parthenon Hall's majestic Glass Gallery with the collected block of the frieze exhibited together for the first time.

STEP 6 The Museum celebrates its sixth birthday, with an exhibition on the subject of the famous mysteries of the Great Gods of Samothrace, comprising 252 exhibits grouped according to their relationship to the buildings of the temple. This is the beginning of a series of exhibitions that the museum will host, with important works of the ancient world, from great locations of the Greek periphery (Until 10/1/16)

STEP 7 The Acropolis comes to life in 3D right before your eyes in the 12-minute film "The Acropolis in Antiquity", revealing its fascinating sculptural secrets in the Virtual Reality Theatre (Every Saturday & Sunday from September).

STEP 8 The program "A day at the Acropolis Museum" invites visitors to spend a day at the Museum enjoying a range of activities from exhibitions and events to presentations of selected exhibits held by Archaeologist-Hosts.

STEP 9 Following an unforgettable stroll around the Museum, you may enjoy a Mediterranean menu with dishes such as fresh steamed mussels with ouzo, aromatic herbs, turmeric and French fries or fresh sea bass (fillet) with fennel sauce and bulgur with vegetables with a breathtaking view to the Acropolis at the museum's restaurant at the second floor.

STEP 10 You may also visit its restaurant up to 12 noon for a wholesome Greek breakfast, with scrambled eggs and smoked pork from Mani, sesame bread rings from Thessaloniki, graviera cheese from Naxos, milk pie, pancakes and many other traditional Greek treats, all with a close-up view of the Parthenon.
